Re: Chris Watkins, President
Industrial Mindworks, Inc.

We have recently contracted with Industrial Mindworks and couldn't have asked for a more professional job.

Chris Watkins has a rare gift for turning concept into reality. In a project of no small complexity, he turned our project around in a remarkably short time and with precisely the results promised. In a world where things "fall through the cracks" and deadlines are often considered starting points, Chris is a welcome departure.

He grasps new concepts instantly and has a firm grip on project reality both in terms of what can actually be done and how long it will take. I can strongly recommend Chris as a key player with exceptional leadership and technical skills.
